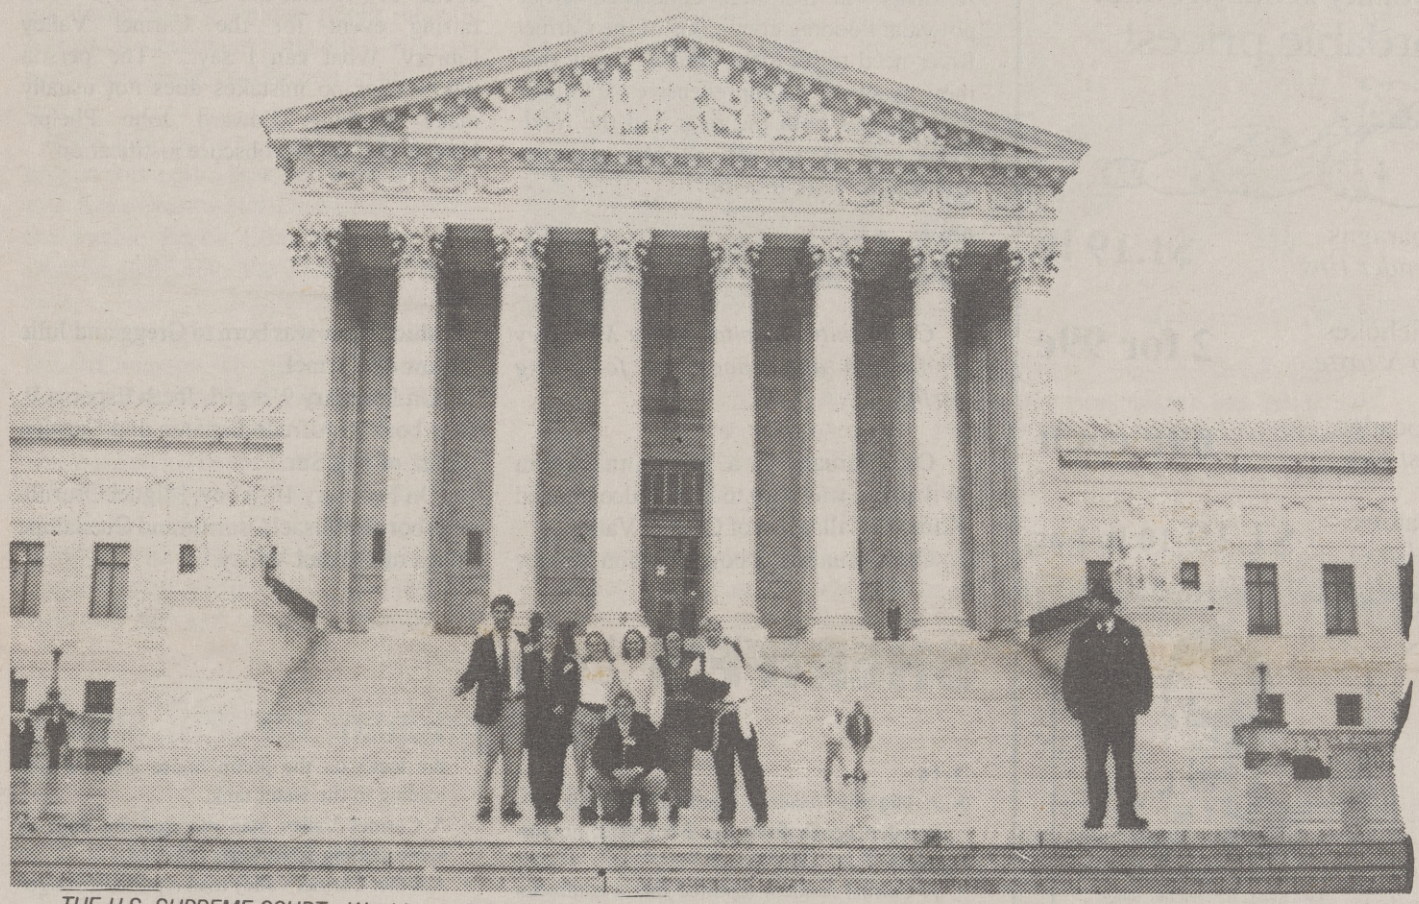
THE Carmel Valley SUN

March 2, 1995



THE U.S. SUPREME COURT - Washinton, D.C - Seven Carmel High School students participated in the annual Close-Up Foundation seminar/excursion to Washington, D.C. The purpose of the week long trip is to provide students from across the nation with a first hand look at the workings of the federal government. Most of the students said they were impressed with the monuments and museums, but not with the workings of government. Representing CHS this year were: Eric Beck, Quincy Struve, Sunny Spaulding, Alex Dimond, Patty Boyd, Brent Carlson and Cristian Leitner.

Even a new dam might not have stopped the flood

Darby Fuerst, senior hydrologist with the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD), recently made a presentation to the MPWMD Board on the effect of the proposed New Los Padres Project would have had on the January 10 flooding in Carmel Valley.

The Water Management District has received several inquiries on what effect the proposed new reservoir would have had on the January flood event. Based on actual streamflow data collected last January as well as computer simulations of how quickly the proposed new reservoir would have filled, Fuerst concluded that the new reservoir would have captured about one-half of the peak storm flow, enough to prevent flooding in Mission Fields.

Fuerst's calculations show that if the proposed reservoir had been on-line, it would have contained about 6,400 acre-feet of water the first week of January 1995. It would have filled to its full capacity of 24,000 acre-feet and begun spilling by the third week in January.

Fuerst noted that the proposed new reservoir would have prevented flooding in this particular case for two reasons. First, the water level would have been low after a relatively dry year in 1994, and, second, the heavy storm flows occurred early in the rainy season. However, Fuerst warned if a similar storm to the January 10 even occurred later in the season or if the reservoir was near capacity in early January, flooding would not have been prevented.

Fuerst emphasized that the New Los Padres Project is not designed to be a flood control project, but it can provide flood control benefits under special circumstances.

Women's Club plans scholarship awards

By Virginia Parke

The Board of the Carmel Valley Women's Club announce plans to award $1,000 scholarships to two Carmel Valley female seniors in 1995. The scholarships are intended to provided additional financial support to females students who meet the following requirements: (1) a high school senior; (2) a Carmel Valley resident; (3) an B or above grade average; (4) active in school and/or Carmel Valley community; (5) demonstrated financial need.

The $1,000 scholarships must be used for enrollment in a one year or longer secretarial, business or beauty college, or trade/technical school, a two year junior or community college, a four year college or university. Students wishing to apply need to supply: documentation of financial need; resume of activities and interests; a high school transcript; letter of acceptance or intent from their school of choice; an essay of approximately 250 words on career goals.

According to Konny Gloy, chair of the scholarship committee, finalists will be interviewed in April. Application deadline is April 1, 1995. Applications have been sent to Carmel High School and Carmel Valley High School or you can call Konny at 659-0147 for further information. Applications are being accepted by mail only.

The two $1,000 scholarships represent the money raised at the Women's Club Christmas Boutique and Decorated House Tour held in December. Last year they were only able to give two $500 scholarships. "The increase is the direct result of community support. The club along with the applicants, send a grateful thank you to those who supported our efforts," stated Konny.

New meeting date

The Carmel Valley Ranchers' Days general meeting date has been changed to Wednesday, March 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the Trail and Saddle Club.

Surprise! (At least to me.) We have a book club discussion group. The Carmel Valley Book Club meets the last Saturday of the month at Teeleet Antiques, 25 Pilot Road in the Village. Facilitated by Dorothy Enyati, the group members make suggestions about which book to read for the next meeting's discussion. Attending the last meeting, Sarah Pearson, Sue Braff, Judy Crocker and Megan Gillies agreed that it is a challenge searching for outstanding authors.

Besides enjoying lively conversational exchanges is the opportunity to barrow books from the over 5,000 shelved on the premises. It was such groups back in the 1800's that played a part in encouraging the literary development of that period.

Kate Rosenthal, chair for the De Los Helechos/Lazy Oaks Road and River Committee is putting out the message that residents in that area concerned about potential flooding conditions of the Carmel River need to let local officials know that they want a "comprehensive solution" that includes both the river and the road. "The goal is to get all the agencies involved to work together."

You can write or call the following people: Larry Hampson, Water Resources Engineer at the Carmel Valley office-659-2543 or Andy Bell, supervisor of the Monterey Peninsula Water District-649-4866. The mailing address for both is P.O. Box 85, Monterey CA 93942. The other person to contact would be Roy Marci of Planning and Flood Plane Management-745-4860. Pebble Beach wins acclaim for water reclaimation project

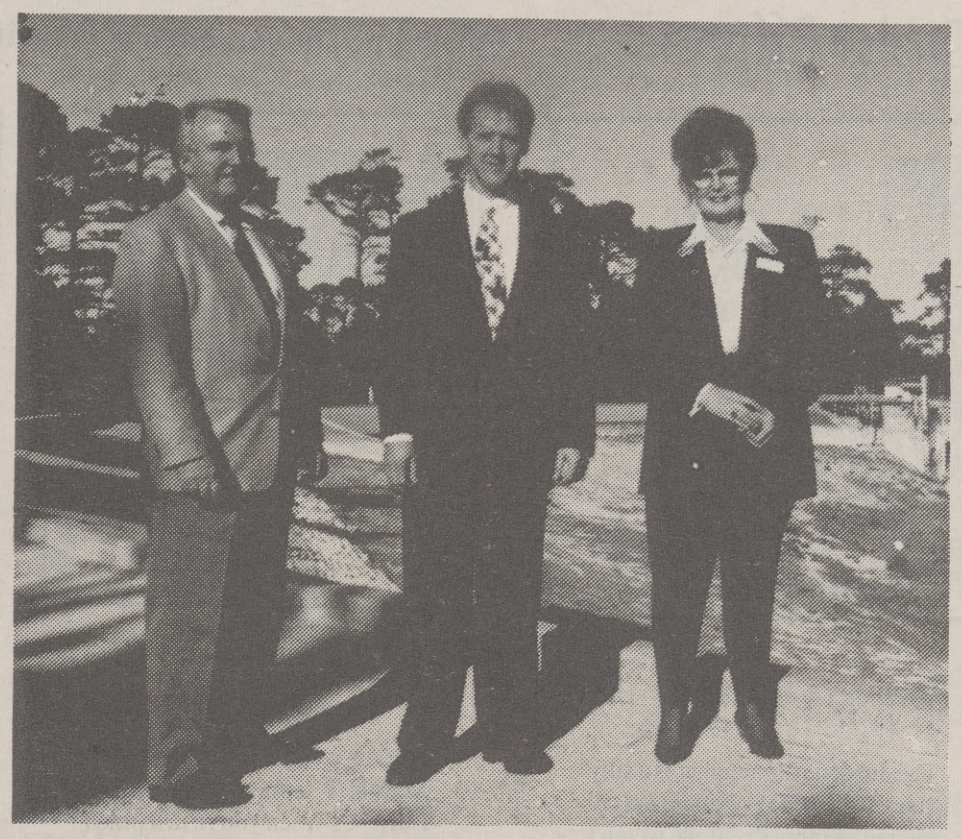
by Elizabeth Cowley

The Pebble Beach Water Reclamation Plant received the "Project of the Year" award from the WateReuse Association of California on February 8, 1995. The Pebble Beach Water Reclamation Plant was chosen from nominees throughout California for developing a unique public benefit wastewater treatment plant employing cooperation between public and private entities.

The $34 million water reclamation project was a joint effort between the Carmel Area Wastewater District (CAWD), the Pebble Beach Community Services District (PBCSD), the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) and the privately owned Pebble Beach Company. The project was financed through Certificate of Participation Bonds issued by the MPWMD; their repayment was guaranteed by the Pebble Beach Company. As the lead agency, CAWD completed the environmental review and permitting. The Pebble Beach Company donated the facility to the CAWD and PBCSD who now own and operate the facility.



Richard Andrews from the Pebble Beach Community Service District, Mark Stillwell, Pebble Beach Company vice-president real estate and general counsel and Linda Morris the public affairs officer for California American Water Company.

The wastewater reclamation plant began operating in August of 1994 and treats residential wastewater for irrigation use. All of the Pebble Beach golf courses and several open spaces are served by the plant displacing 800 acre feet of potable water for reallocation. For example, an average home uses 1/4 of an acre foot of water per year. By reusing this "waste" water, the flow of secondary treated wastewater into Carmel Bay will be reduced by 700,000 gallons per day.

The Pebble Beach Company and PBCSD are hoping to expand the storage capacity of the water reclamation system through the acquisition of the Forest Lake Reservoir currently owned by Cal-Am. The Forest Lake Reservoir could store an additional 400 acre feet of water which would provide enough storage of reclaimed water to supply the irrigation needs of the Pacific Grove Municipal Golf Course and Cemetery.

Water District meeting report

by Elizabeth Cowley

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) Board of Directors held its monthly meeting last Thursday, February 23.

The items on the consent calendar were adopted unanimously with the exception of 3 items opposed by Director Lou Haddad. Director Haddad objected to the purchase of a rotary drum fish screen for the Sleepy Hollow Steelhead Rearing Facility, contracting a backhoe for repairs to flood damage at the Schulte Project and contracting a backhoe for the installation of riparian plantings at the deDampierre and Valley Hills Project.

Jim Cofer, MPWMD General Manager, presented a report on the theoretical effects the New Los Padres Dam would have had on the January 1995 flooding in the Mission Fields area. From data provided by Cal-Am monitoring stations at the Los Padres Dam and the Highway 1 Bridge, half of the flow reaching Mission Fields was from tributaries downstream of the dam site; thus a new dam would have no effect in preventing these flows.

However, Mr. Cofer reported that given the previous dry year and the early January 1995 storm, the Proposed New Los Padres Dam could have had the capacity to

by Mary Beth Bowman

The Carmel Unified School District has packed a whole lot of meetings into the short month of February. Board of Education members worked to award bids, hear presentations, and continue on with the search for a new superintendent.

On February 9, the Board awarded the bid for reconstruction of the Tularcitos multipurpose room. Eight companies applied for the project; the three lowest bidders were Lister Construction, Baptista Construction, and DMC Construction.

Baptista Construction received the bid award for a sum of $599,326. Construction will include renovating the administrative office, remodeling, and building additions. The Board also approved advertisement for bids to procure one school bus.

Another special meeting, February 27, involved the award of a bid for grading, drainage and paving improvements at Carmel High School baseball field. Bid results were not available at the time this edition of the CV Sun went to print.

Board members heard presentations on the district's special education program and on the high school's progress in receiving accreditation during the regular meeting February 16. CHS Principal Marie Ishida and CHS head counselor Lynn Archer talked briefly on obtaining WASC (Western Association of Schools and Colleges) accreditation.

Having completed the self-study portion of the accreditation, the school is about one-third into the program. Now CHS is preparing for a staff visit from WASC. The visit is scheduled for April 2-5 and Ishida said the school will get its "report card" April 5th. The third phase of the accreditation involves follow-up action where the school implements the self-study and staff study recommendations.

Ishida said she is hoping for a six-year accreditation with a three-year visit scheduled during that period. Ishida went on to commend the staff of counselors, teachers, parents and volunteers that assisted in the school self-study. "They have been professionals . . . absolutely incredible with really honest self-evaluation," she noted.

In other business, the board voted to abandon the existing septic tank system at Carmel Middle School and to advertise for bids, or solicit quotes to connect the site to the Carmel Area Wastewater District sewer system. The change will involve paying the CAWD a connection fee of $32,345 plus a $75 permit fee. The district will also have to pay an annual use fee for $2,986, which is subject to change.

Board members accepted gifts from the community as follows: Doug Mooers donated an IBM monitor, keyboard and mouse to CMS; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Woytak donated a microphone stand to CHS; Dr. Hal Kopel, D.C. donated a Samsung Monitor, Amstrad Printer and personal work processor, and assorted manuals and disks to the district.

In March the CUSD community is invited to meet with the superintendent search advisor, Dr. Jake Abbott, of Management Analysis and Planning Associates. The district has published flyers encouraging people to call and schedule an appointment or plan to attend the Community Forum on March 7 at the Carmel Middle School Library.

Abbott will be available, by appointment, March 7 at the Captain Cooper School Office from 10 a.m. to noon. From 3:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. he will be at the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula (between CMS and Rancho Canada on Carmel Valley Road). On March 8, Abbott will also be available from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Mid Valley Fire Department, 7455 CV Road, across from Carmelo. To schedule an appointment, call Kim at the district office, 624-1546.

Future meetings include the public forum March 7, a regular board meeting March 9 at the CMS Library and another regular meeting March 23 at River School. The open session of regular meetings begins at 7 p.m. A joint meeting with Carmel-by-the-Sea City Council is tentatively scheduled for March 14. That meeting will be at the Council chambers at 6 p.m.

This was the beginning of Barry Harrow's transformation from a life dedicated to the professional field of mathematics to a life filled with legal challenges, community works and weekends riding a motorcycle.

"The firm I contacted just happened to have an employee that was leaving. I found out three weeks later I had passed the bar and came back out to the Monterey Peninsula three weeks after that. FUN IN THE SUN

Dave Lyon

Hey, gang, the Community Center's '95 Donation and Membership Drive is off and running. The Direct Mail letters have gone out to everyone here in Carmel Valley, and the initial response has been fantastic!

Our goal is to double the current number of Community Center memberships, currently at about 10% of the valley population. Are YOU a member of the Carmel Valley Community" Center? If not, and if you have recently received our Direct Mail letter, please take a moment this week to respond. The CVCYC, famous for such outstanding community events as the Santa Fly-In, the Surfin' Safari party, and the Music in the Park Summer Concert Series, receives more than 85% of its funding directly from the community!

Yes, without the steadfast support of the good folk of Carmel Valley, there simply would be NO COMMUNITY CENTER! (yuck.) Your $25 annual donation goes directly towards supporting the ongoing efforts of the many local volunteers who believe that the people of Carmel Valley deserve the best that we all have to offer.

And . . . to the many of you out there who have recently decided to become supporting members of your Community Center, we send a heartfelt "thank you," and we welcome you among our circle of friends. We're still waiting to hear from the rest of you! If that direct mail letter is still sitting on the kitchen counter, or maybe fallen into the "I really should do something about this" pile, we urge you to join your Community Center TODAY! If you have not received our letter or maybe the dog got to it first, call the CVCYC at 659-3983 during regular business hours. We'll be glad to tell you more about this very important part of Carmel Valley.

Check it out . . . all new members, donators and membership renewers will be rewarded by return mail with the very new, very cool CVCYC support sticker, suitable for slapping on your front or rear. (Windshield.) And . . . starting this Spring, that support sticker could be your ticket to fun and really neato prizes! CVCYC board members will be on the lookout for vehicles sporting the Community Center logo; license plate numbers will be noted, and entered into a monthly drawing, offering gift certificates and prizes from local merchants. But . . . ya gotta get a sticker to play! Contact the Community Center now!

Now ongoing at the Community Youth Center: the very popular COMPUTER CLASSES continue to open windows for everyone still trying to get user friendly with the P.C. in the house. Classes are held in two hour morning sessions starting at 9 a.m., and cover every aspect of cyber lingo. For a complete schedule of classes and topics, contact the CVCYC, or contact instructor Reggie king direct at 393-9108. Class size is limited, so call now

Your Community Center is very pleased and excited to announce that our annual Monte Carlo fund-raising event is being replaced this year with an even bigger, even better (as yet unnamed) Western-style dinner and dance party, to be held May the 13th at Hidden Valley. The evening will feature live music, outrageously good food, dancing, a live and silent auction, and more! Watch this space for further details on this very exciting evening of entertainment!

Is it too early to start thinking about Spring? (Do ducks like water? Is it useless trying to keep my dogs off the bed? Is there baseball in Heaven?) The thermostat and the groundhogs all point to Winter, but fear not gang, April will be here before you can all say 1040 short form, and the Community Center pool weather is not far behind! The pool should be opening in mid April this year, and your CVCYC will be offering SPRINGBOARD DIVING and SCUBA classes again as soon as the weather gets warm!

Also in the planning stages is a series of COMMUNITY DANCES, to be held at the Community Hall on Ford Road. Watch this space for more info., or better yet, call the CVCYC and find out how YOU can get involved in putting on one of these great social events. (Remember those really cool dances you all went to in college, where the music was really loud, the beer was cold and it only cost a few bucks to get in? Okay, well, you all get the idea!)

Hey, I'm outta here, kids. Don't forget about those very important membership letters! Your CVCYC is counting on YOU to make the difference. Call us at 659-3983 for full info!

jobs. I was a typist in a steno pool. In a sea of desk, I was the only one with a view. My window faced a brick wall. I also drove a taxi in Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens."

After doing graduate work and receiving two masters' degrees in mathematics he taught mathematics courses at a New York community college. He moved to Los Angeles in 1975 and continued to teach. "I was locked into teaching at the community college level without a Ph.D. The thesis I was working on turned out to be unsolvable, although I met all the other requirement for the degree. I started attending law school at night, just in case I tired of mathematics."

"Half way through law school I took a job as a transportation systems analysis. I traveled internationally analyzing electric vehicle transportation technology while continuing my law studies. I devised statistical methods for gathering data. That's what I was doing professionally when I came to the conference."

Life has been full of personal and community involvement since that fateful April. He met and married psychologist Ann Flood. He has been a Red Cross instructor. He was one of the first to hold HIV and AID education sessions. "I would go into bars and hold AIDS sessions. This was back in 1986-87 when there was a lot of fear and little knowledge."

"I have taught math courses at Monterey Peninsula College and I still enjoy teaching." He is also on the Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce Board of Director, a member of the Carmel Rotary and a member of the Board of the Old Monterey Business Association. "It is time for me to give back to the community. Time to take it easier and not stress."

Barry's eclectic professional and community activities are matched by his hobbies. "I brew very good beer and spend as much time as possible riding my Harley motorcycle. Motorcycle clubs do more than just drive through the countryside, they also get together to ride for charities. We recently rode to Wisconsin to raise money for Muscular Dystrophy."

He recently opened a satellite law office in the Village. He was the originator and a volunteer at the Carmel Valley library fund raiser "A Night At The Old Buckeye". True to his parents teachings, Barry continues to use and share his inner talents.

SEMINARS ADD TO EXPERTISE

Real estate agents always have a chance to attend seminars. There is a new seminar happening virtually every week.

"Seminars are so boring," some might say. But, as the old adage goes, only the boring get bored.

One of the best things about attending seminars is the opportunity to meet other agents, particularly if they are from other cities and states. No matter what else is going on, it's always educational and exciting to share each other's thoughts on how to conduct business.

It can be the most effective way of learning how to become more professional. In this respect, seminars are like mental interstate highways, connecting great ideas.

Honore Frumentino, an agent who works for Remax in Chicago, Illinois, shared with me a copy of her customer service agreement. It's called My Pledge to You: "I will provide the best service possible for every client I represent. I will never tell a client what they want to hear if it's not reality. I will only enter into a client relationship where I know what is expected of me can be done.

"When hired to sell a client's home, I will always make recommendations that can assist their home's value or help reduce its marketing time - even if it means telling them things they do not want to hear. I acknowledge that I may periodically lose business because I am truthful with my clients and my competitors will tell them what they want to hear to temporarily get their business. I will always remember that to have a winning relationship with my clients, we must always have a mutual goal.

"I will always hold in sight that my honesty, loyalty, understanding, accountability and creativity are what make me so very different from the real estate masses.

"I will always utilize a well trained staff to assist me in the complex home marketing and/or selling process.

"I will prioritize my time so that I am working with only people who are either buying or selling real estate.

"I will always treat all parties honestly and fairly and I will always offer my properties without regard to race, color, creed, religion, sex, ancestry, national origin, handicapped or family status. I will always promote the best interest of my client.

"I assure you that I will continually strive for excellence in my profession. Not just by obtaining required continuing education credits, but by attendance and participation in a variety of seminars, conferences and retreats, designed to enhance my knowledge and skills in order to better serve my clients.

"I share this with you, because I believe it's important for you to know how I feel about the real estate industry and how I feel about my real estate career. You win in life by helping others."

Frumentino's commitment to her occupation comes across loud and clear in her pledge. Her perspective of the business is not the only agent who offers her clients a pledge.

But wouldn't it be great if more agents did?

VALLEY FINANCE Douglas Pease

"Baby Boomers" are the biggest buyers of investments . . for their retirement plans and children's college expenses. As more Baby Boomers want more stocks, prices are bid up in our capital markets. That's nice for any of us who invest.

What happens when the Baby Boomers sell, first as their children enter college and then as they retire?

Wouldn't a couple of decades of not selling tend to drive down market prices? I'll say it another way: who is going to buy all the investments the Baby Boomers will want to sell?

I don't know the answer, but I suspect our capital markets will be very different around the year 2020. Think about it: if you are waiting to harvest your investments at the same time millions of others are selling, you could receive less than you now anticipate.

Could this happen?

The possibility of lower expectations in our capital markets shifts the whole concept of growth investments away from those opportunities to increase value severalfold and then sell, toward those opportunities to increase cash flows indefinitely at a pace faster than inflation. Prospects for future value in the marketplace may prove less attractive than prospects for future cash flows.

Business may tend to spend less for expansion into new markets, in favor of paring costs, increasing productivity, and improving efficiencies . . . all to enhance net cash flows. A company's cash flow may become far more valuable to owners than its capital growth.

Is this beginning to sound familiar?

NEW WARRANTY AVAILABLE FOR OLDER HOMES

Did you know that you can insure your kitchen appliances and hot water heater against breakage after the manufacturer's warranty has expired? A home protection plan policy also covers heating, electrical and plumbing systems. With this warranty policy, an annual premium of $245 allows professional repairs for a nominal charge of $35 per call, and renewals are offered after the first year.

Debbie Held, Local Representative, and Deborah D'Arcy, Regional Manager of First American Home Buyer's Protection Company, recently answered Monterey County listeners' questions as guests of William L. Smith on his radio show, "Real Estate Today by Pacific Bay."

Common problems encountered during the life of a contract are with hot water heaters and plumbing, but as long as the initial evaluation shows no preexisting defects in any of the covered items and systems, they will be repaired by a licensed contractor by simply reporting the problem to the 24-hour service operators at First American.

Only working and non-structural portions of a home are covered, but items such as garage door openers, telephone wiring, roof leaks, washer/dryers, well pumps, pool/spas and past problems can be covered with additional riders to the policy

Both home buyers and sellers can take advantage of this warranty policy, so whether you're buying an older home or thinking of putting one on the market, contact your real estate professional or give First American Home Buyer's Protection Company a call at 1-800-698-0422.

More money on Carmel Valley Road

On Thursday, February 23, 1995, at around 3:45 p.m., local businesswoman Anna Intorcaso was on her way to deposit several days' proceeds from her Pacific Coast Catering company in the bank.

As she turned onto Carmel Valley Road from Highway 1, paper currency and checks floated out through the open driver's side window of her vehicle and onto the highway.

Due to the traffic behind her she was unable to pull off of the road right away. A passenger in an unknown type truck that was awaiting the signal light to turn green onto Highway 1 from Carmel Valley Road exited his vehicle and picked up the money and checks.

This person got back into this truck, which was last seen heading north on Highway 1.

The victim is offering a $100, no questions asked reward for the return of the money and checks. She is also offering the same amount as a reward for the arrest and conviction of the individual responsible for misappropriating her lost property in violation of section 485 of the California Penal Code (reference case # 01691.95).

According to the owners, there are only "about 600 homes and 230 vacant parcels of land, regardless of size or value, in the market area."

prevent the Mission Fields flooding even with the high tributary flow. Mr. Cofer stated that the purpose of the New Los Padres Dam is long term water supply, not flood protection although incidental flood protection might result under specific conditions.

Director Haddad said of this report that "The Dam would normally be more full and I personally feel that the dam would have made no difference in the January Flood." Director Haddad further said that "Last month's report and this one tonight were geared towards dam support and I resent using the Board meeting, which is supposed to conduct the business of the district, as a dam promotional forum."

The February water supply status report indicated that the District has 194% of normal rainfall, 272% of normal runoff and 106% of normal storage. The adult steelhead count is up from last year; 163 as compared to 90 last year. The steelhead counts are obtained from a mechanical counter at the fish ladder at the Los Padres Dam.

The Board voted to adopt ordinance 73 which abolishes the district reserve and distributes it equally among the 8 jurisdictions; this distribution amounts to just over 4.3 acre feet per jurisdiction. Director Haddad opposed this allocation as he believes the district reserve should be allocated to the jurisdictions who need it the most.

The Board unanimously adopted Ordinance 74 allowing the allocation of residential retrofit credits. Ordinance 74 become effective on March 25, 1995, and would allow water savings from retrofitting to be used for remodeling at the same site, with the jurisdiction's approval. The retrofit allocation would be deducted from the jurisdiction's following yearly allocation.

A permit for the Carmel Greens water distribution system was granted September of 1994 with the conditions that easements be proven and a Water Use Agreement be produced. These conditions were required as the water system would have to cross property not owned by Carmel Greens. MPWMD staff reported that neither of the conditions have been met in the 5 months since the permit was granted and recommended that the number of hookups be reduced from 6 to 4 which would eliminate the need for the conditions as 4 of the proposed hookups are on contiguous parcels.

The propose residential hookups are "agricultural conversions" meaning that the water has been historically used for agriculture. About 16 acre feet of water was pumped from an on-site well during 6 months in 1994 to grow peas, beans and zucchini and this use is the basis for the residential hook up permit. Mr. Greenwood from the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association approached the Board and requested that they address the letter the association wrote alleging that the water use represented waste not beneficial water use as the Association observed no evidence of agriculture at the site. In addition, Mr. Greenwood requested that some proof that these agricultural products were actually grown and sold be produced. Carl Hooper, Carmel Greens Project Engineer, responded that his client had leased the land to a farmer and that the water use was legitimate. Ms. Beard, a neighbor, said that all observed at the Carmel Greens site was dry land and a couple of dried squash, hardly agricultural production. Christopher Clark, a neighbor to the south, said that to his knowledge the land was "leased" for $0 and questioned if that had any bearing in the case.

The Board decided to follow staff's recommendation and amend the permit to 4 hookups from 6. Chairwoman Fran Farina directed staff to further investigate the water waste issue and for the results to be present at the next meeting.

The next MPWMD meeting will be on March 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Monterey City Council Chambers. The meeting is open to the public.

Youth to Youth - another idea for keeping kids away from drugs

by Mary Beth Bowman

Pep rally? Concert? Sporting event, maybe. Walking near the Carmel High School gymnasium, one could hear shouts, chanting and cheers. Ahh - a celebration!

Indeed, when the world around us is filled with grim news of drug and alcohol-related crime and violence, it is something to celebrate when hundreds of teens rally against drugs and against the abuse of alcohol.

For two days last weekend, over 300 central coast middle and high school students gathered at CHS to hear speakers, share in small group sessions, watch funny and sad drama and spend the night together. The intent was to uplift, encourage and train each other in peer counseling.

Sabrina Holber, 15, an eighth grader at Carmel Middle School, said the Youth To Youth conference was worth the sacrifice of her weekend. "I'm glad I went. I heard a lot of stuff about resisting peer pressure and what harm drugs can do to your life," she said.

Holber was so impressed she volunteered to help staff the Pacific Grove conference scheduled for May 6 and 7. "I want to be a counselor and work in the workshops. A counselor is somebody you can turn to if you need help," she explained, smiling shyly.

Bianca Sams, a 10th-grade student at Robert Louis Stevenson, said she liked the Santa Cruz student drama group called Life Scripts. "After hearing these personal stories, I know now that I'm not going to get into that scene," she exclaimed.

Heartworm a serious threat to dogs

Until recently, dogs in our area have been at low risk for contracting heartworm, a mosquito borne disease that is fatal to dogs if left untreated. Years of drought have prevented mosquito infestations, convincing local dog owners that heartworm testing and preventive medication were unnecessary.

The SPCA of Monterey County cautions that recent abundant rains have created ripe conditions for an outbreak of heartworm disease in the local area. Many pools and puddles of standing water provide the perfect "nursery" environment for mosquitoes. Once they bite a dog that is a heartworm carrier, the mosquitoes will transmit the disease to every dog they bite thereafter.

Heartworms live in the heart and great veins of dogs. An infected heart looks as though it is wrapped in spaghetti. An infected dog will die of heart failure if the disease is left untreated. Symptoms of the disease include exercise intolerance, difficulty breathing, coughing, and lethargy.

Fortunately, preventative medication is available in a monthly pill, available through veterinarians. Since preventive medicine is only 95 percent effective, and can be fatal to a dog already infected with heartworms, it is important that dogs are tested for the disease during their annual veterinary exam and before administering preventing medicine.

Another means of preventing heartworm is getting rid of mosquitoes, or keeping dogs away from them. The Mosquito Abatement District offers free tips and assistance for becoming mosquito-free. They will even come out and stock ponds, troughs and other standing water with mosquito fish -- tiny mosquito eating wonders that eliminate the mosquitoes without the use of chemical pesticides. You can contact the Mosquito Abatement District at 373-2483.

The SPCA of Monterey County advises all dog owners to consult their veterinarians about heartworm and closely follow their recommendations.
